New Doctor joins Seabird Island's Health Centre

If you're a patient of Seabird Island's Health Centre, you may notice a new face at the Doctor's Office.

Dr. Rob Brooks joined Seabird Island in June and will be one of the temporary replacement Doctors at the Health Centre while Dr. Robert Fox furthers his education in addictions medicine at the University of British Columbia.

While Dr. Brooks' education has led him throughout Canada and even down under, he lends most of his decision to become a doctor to his mom.

"I wasn't one of those people who always thought they'd become a doctor," explained Dr. Brooks, but that changed when his mother was diagnosed with a terminal illness.

"She got pancreatic cancer when I was in my final year of undergrad. My mom was a public health nurse and I saw her impact on the community. She did a lot of disaster relief and other public health-related things in our community.

That factored in a bit to my desire to become a doctor, having experienced my mom pass away just as I was starting medical school. That started leading me towards it. I liked working with people and it seemed like it was a nice mesh of what I saw my mum do with her life and what I'd like to do."

After finishing undergrad school, his wife was offered a once-in-a-life-time opportunity. One that would see them move half-way around the world.

She was accepted into medical school at Sydney University and rather than being "forever apart", Dr. Brooks chose to follow his wife to Australia and attended the same medical school so that they could remain together.

Four and a half years later, once medical school was finished, he and his wife moved back to Canada to continue their education.

Dr. Brooks started his residency at a memorial hospital in St. Johns, spending eight months at Goosebay in Labrador where he and each of the other residents in his program were assigned a community.

"While I was there I was assigned to Natuashish, a small Innu community, and about once a month we would fly up there for a week and reside in the community to help run the clinic and the emergency room."

Having experienced working in small, remote Innu communities, Dr. Brooks is also aware of the unique role of a Doctor in First Nations communities.

"Privacy in a smaller community becomes an important issue," says Dr. Brooks.

During his residency, he also worked in another Innu community called Sheshatshiu before completing the program and setting up his own family practice with his wife in a small, out-of-the-way town called Grand Falls, Newfoundland which is about 5-hours outside of St. Johns.

But, after he and his wife started a family of their own, they decided another move was in order.

"We decided we needed more help and that it would be nice for our kids. I was very close to my grandma and it would be nice for our kids to know their cousins and grandparents. They're very involved grandparents."

Dr. Brooks' wife was raised in Coquitlam and her parents and family are still there - family that were excited to spend much more time with little Kaleb, 4 years, and Tobin, 4 months.

Having a great connection with grandparents is something the Doctor believes is very important.

So, they closed up their practice and moved to the west coast to begin looking for a place that would fit for their family and that's what led him to Seabird Island.

Dr. Brooks describes his term at Seabird Island's Health Centre as being a 'bridge to a bridge'.

"There's another physician coming for a longer period of time than myself," said the Doctor, who will be at the Health Centre for the months of June and July but his stay could be longer.

Dr. Fox leaves the Health Centre on June 30 and is planning to return in July of 2017.

While the Health Centre is saddened to see Dr. Fox leave, they look forward to the new knowledge and skills he will bring to the clinic upon his return.

32 children begin their education journey

It's a walk parents begin with their children and according to Seabird Island Band's Chief Clem Seymour, our children are our greatest commodity, they are our future.

It's a step that deserves celebration. That's why, each year, the Seabird Island Pre-School hosts a graduation ceremony for students in its three's and four's programs.

"What we take care of today is very important. To walk with these young people and what we're bringing back to them is a very cultural experience," said Chief Seymour.

Chief Seymour attended both ceremonies, the morning for the four's program and the afternoon for the three's, to welcome the children and their families.

Both groups of children were drummed into the room while wearing shawls, blankets, or cedar and walked around the room in procession before being seated.

To cleanse their spirits for the work being done and to protect their future walks, each child was brushed with cedar.

"It's about bringing back the teaching that they belong. To understand what culture is, to understand what it means when we're bringing in the song is a teaching - an understanding. It's our walk together that we have. How we look after one another, what it means to walk together, what it means to understand that they do belong."

But the ceremony is about much more than just celebrating the children's first steps in their journeys through school.

It's also about celebrating them as a family, as a community, and building our community's future.

"We do it this way because we want to bring our people along. To say this is where we want to be in the sight of our future," explains Chief Seymour.

"It's an honour to be covered in cedar," explains Youth / Cultural Worker Jonny Williams, "this morning the young ones had shawls and sashes on, these ones here [the three's] have the honour of wearing the cedar. It's covering their spirit. Even with how young they are, they will learn that meaning. And warm them up, and show them the love and respect that everyone has for them. Showing them respect for the journey they did this year."

Seabird Island's Pre-School offers two programs, one for three year olds and the other for four year olds.

Both programs are fully licensed. The Pre-school's goals are: to support and encourage child development and school readiness skills and to provide opportunities for children to play while encouraging life-long learning.

Congratulations students!

Aboriginal Awareness Week sailor profile: Ordinary Seaman Tristan Harris

Navy News | <http://www.navy-marine.forces.gc.ca> | May 2016

For two and a half months this past spring, Ordinary Seaman (OS) Tristan Robert Harris sailed off the west coast of North and Central America in Her Majesty's Canadian Ship (HMCS) Saskatoon as part of Operation CARIBBE, a maritime interdiction operation to counter illicit trafficking.

"I'm honoured to have taken part in this important operation. Illicit trafficking is an ongoing international problem and I believe using our military is an effective and useful tool to help make a difference at home and abroad."

As a Boatswain during Operation CARIBBE, OS Harris' responsibilities included working as a helmsman, and operating and maintaining the ship's rigging, anchoring, and towing equipment. He is also trained in high-speed boat operations, boat maintenance, navigation, and the operation and maintenance of small arms including the .50 cal mounted machine gun and C-4 demolitions.

OS Harris joined the Royal Canadian

Navy (RCN) through the Canadian Forces Aboriginal Entry Program in 2014 as a Boatswain. "I wanted a career where I could continue to better myself, serve my country, make my family and friends proud, and give my daughter the best life possible." OS Harris is aboriginal from his mother's side of the family, who are part of the Sto:lo First Nations.

His family taught him the value of hard work, and in 2012 OS Harris returned to a local youth centre in his hometown of Agassiz, B.C. that he attended as a child to mentor young children and encourage them to get involved in sports, and outdoor activities.

Once in the RCN, OS Harris was chosen to be the parade commander for his initial trade training graduation in 2015 due to his exemplary service. A few months later he was asked to participate in the Victoria Day Parade, and is now returning from his first international deployment.

Over the next few years, OS Harris hopes to sail on a Halifax-Class frigate, and be part of a Boarding Party team. "I want to continue to do my best, and excel in my career."

OS Harris also hopes to return to the Canadian Forces Aboriginal Entry Program as a mentor to new recruits. "It's a great program that I want to give back to. I hope to see more First Nations who might be interested in a career in the Canadian Armed Forces experience what it has to offer."

HMCS Saskatoon and Edmonton returned from Operation CARIBBE on April 29, 2016. Operation CARIBBE is Canada's contribution to Operation MARTILLO, a multinational campaign against transnational criminal organizations in the Pacific Ocean and Caribbean.

Ride to Conquer Cancer fundraiser sells out in a flash

Seabird Island Band staffers, Kathy Leslie and Mike Mitchell were overjoyed with the turn out for their cookie fundraiser earlier this month.

Before Kathy even finished setting up her displays she had visitors getting their change ready to purchase one of their delicious cookies, rice krispies, lemon squares, or cupcakes.

Mike, who works within the Finance team at Seabird, was ecstatic with the support they received from the community and fellow staff members.

“Through everyone’s generous support, we raised over $350 for our Ride to Conquer Cancer and we completely sold out in 2-hours! Thank you!”

Their team, “Peddling for Our Peeps, is made up of seven members - all of which have been touched by cancer in one way or another.

After several fundraisers, their team is now $4,000 closer to their goal of $20,000.

The Ride to Conquer Cancer is a 250-km, two-day long ride from Vancouver to Seattle August 27-28.

All proceeds from the fundraiser will go to the Ride to Conquer Cancer for cancer research.

New policy for public feedback

Seabird Island has created a policy to assist the Band in gathering feedback about its operations and services.

Whether you have a compliment, comment, suggestion, or a complaint, Seabird Island would like to hear from you.

Your feedback is important and it will help Seabird Island improve what we do as an organization.

Council commits itself to provide every member of the public with courteous service.

This new policy is designed to assist Council, staff, and anyone representing the Band in improving standards of service and communication.

Council and the Band’s Chief Administrative Officer will ensure your compliments, comments, suggestions, and complaints are dealt with appropriately and in accordance with the new policy.

The policy outlines two methods for handling public feedback through “informal” verbal and a “formal” written methods as well as resolution processes and record-keeping procedures.

If you would like to learn more about this new policy, please visit our website: www.seabirdisland.ca

Mammogram screening clinic returns

Seabird Island once again welcomes the mammogram screening clinic on September 1.

Medical experts recommend that women aged 40 to 79 with no signs of a breast problem (such as lumps, nipple discharge, etc.) have a screening mammogram at least every two years - because "once is not enough".

We need to compare your new mammogram with your previous exam to detect changes - early detection can save your life.

Early detection of breast cancer means more treatment options and a better chance for recovery.

Having regular screening mammograms has helped to reduce deaths from breast cancer in BC women by 25%.

Screening mammograms are for women with no sign of a breast problem (see your health care provider immediately if you find a lump or any unusual changes in your breast).

By age 50, women should make screening mammograms part of their regular health routine and have them at least once every two years.

If you are 40 years old or older and would like to schedule a mammogram, book your appointment by completing a registration form available at the Health Centre.

AMBULANCE BILLS

Please submit ambulance bills to Maggie Pettis as soon as you receive them. If the bill is more than 1 year old, ambulance costs will no longer be covered under the Non-Insured Health Benefits (NIHB). Anyone with a Status Number can have the ambulance paid for by Health Canada as long as it's not an ICBC claim.

Ambulance bills – We can only help those with a status number, everyone else has to pay for their own unless it's an ICBC claim.

Unfortunately ambulance bills will not be covered if you have been incarcerated (in jail cell).

Please take note that the Ambulance Billing in Victoria know when you have been incarcerated just by the address provided on the billing.

Please do not bring those in because we are unable to assist, as they will be denied and it will be the client's responsibility to pay.

Contact Maggie Pettis 604-796-2177.

MEDICAL CARDS

We can assist people with requesting their medical cards, if they are lost or stolen and need a replacement.

*Each client is responsible for paying for their medical cards! If they've been lost or stolen more than 2 times the cost is $20.00 for each new card.

Sorry we don't help people get their BC ID.
