Composting Organic Waste Workshop

In mid-November, Dr. Tissa Kannangara hosted a Composting Organic Waste workshop at Seabird College. Dr. Tissa has been actively involved with the staff at Sqewqel Development Corporation with the initial start-up of the hazelnut / vegetable farm. He assisted the staff in doing soil tests, fertilizing, applying lime and prepping the ground for the various plants and trees that were to be planted across the 120 acres of Seabird Island land.

Composting is the natural breakdown of organic waste that has regular exposure to oxygen. For the everyday person there is cold composting and for those more advanced to it, there is hot composting. Cold composting is as simple as collecting yard waste or taking out the organic materials in your trash (such as fruit and vegetable peels, coffee grounds, filters and eggshells) and then collecting them in a pile or bin. Over the course of a year or so, the material will decompose.

Hot composting is for the more serious gardener but a faster process—you'll get compost in one to three months during warm weather. Four ingredients are required for fast-cooking hot compost: nitrogen, carbon, air and water. Together, these items feed micro-organisms, which speed up the process of decay.

Dr. Tissa also explained the processes of composting on a larger, more commercial scale. These include windrow, in-vessel and wormi-composting. In agriculture, windrow composting is the production of compost by piling organic matter or biodegradable waste, such as animal manure and crop residues, in long rows. In-vessel composting generally describes a group of methods that confine the composting materials within a building, container, or vessel.

Wormi-composting is being seen more and more as a way to help our environment and reduce waste. It gives the worms all the food they can eat. Don't go out and dig out night crawlers that live in the soil by your home to populate your compost bin. Night crawlers need to tunnel through dirt to eat and survive and they can't live on vegetable waste. Instead, you need red worms or red wigglers. As they eat, the worms ingest large amounts of organic material, digest it and dispose of the waste as worm castings which is very rich in nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and many micro-nutrients. This is what makes your compost soil so fertile and helps your garden grow.

A compost should not smell or have any bad odors. In any compost you should have equal amounts of various compostable materials. To ensure even composting, you should turn your materials every week or so, to ensure it does not get too hot. If it gets too hot, the materials will rot, causing an odor. Avoid meat scraps, bones, fish, leftover dairy products and oily foods since these will make your compost pile smell as well as attract flies and rodents.

This workshop was held to help increase community awareness to how easy and beneficial composting is. It not only reduces our household waste, but it in turn recycles it into a nutrient rich soil to help plants grow. There a number of things we can do individually and as part of a community to help save our planet including; reducing our garbage levels, recycling and composting.

Community Christmas Dinner

*Christmas is forever, not for just one day,
for loving, sharing, giving, are not to put away

The good you do for others is good you do yourself*

The Annual Community Christmas Dinner is set to take place on December 6, 2017 and starts at 5:30 p.m.

Upon check in children will be given a craft to do at their table; in addition, coloring sheets will be on tables for children. After dinner, Santa will be giving out gifts to children ages, 0-9 years old. Those with children in this age group living in your home, please contact Angie to verify, so she can do her best to ensure that there are enough gifts.

This year Santa's will arrive at 6:30 p.m.

Merry Christmas from Seabird Island 2017

Submitted by Carolyne Neufeld , Angie Chapman & Carol Hope

Paul Andrew, Councillor

I have tried very hard to take seriously the responsibility you have given us all to represent Seabird Members at the Council table.

I have previously served 10 years on Council and on many other Boards and Committees for Seabird or other communities. All this experience yet, there is still a huge job to become familiar with the wonderful hard work that Seabird has accomplished. It has been long time since I worked as staff in the accounting department or as a Council member.

I want all of us to look at the accomplishments of Council and feel that we are working on the projects and strategies you want Council to work on. I would emphasize the importance of the Council's planning session this fall, as we hope to identify the goals and strategies for Seabird so that we can share these goals with you.

We have the Comprehensive Community Plan which I will refer to these as the source of community engagement and direction. Community planning is so important as the Canadian Government prepares to unveil the new fiscal framework, which means that the Feds are going to change how our and capital projects are funded. Referring to the Community Goals and Strategies will be important to address the Community Evaluation. We expect Canada to unveil a 10-year Block Funding process. This means that we can decide how the priorities and will need to understand a lot about program development.

I have taken on the portfolios of Finance, Information and Technology, Education – Alternate, Economic Development (Sqewqel Development Corporation) and Aboriginal Rights & Title. Many of us involved the council want to work at changing this work and make this community even better. I respect the hard work that the past Council has done to build this organization and I hope the same can be said after looking at the work we are doing now.

I have long felt that establishing the Seabird Island Strength of Claim is our most important task. Our role as leaders for Seabird should be primarily focusing on defending our land, rights and title. We need to research our history, share this with Seabird Members and seek direction on how our families used this land for hunting, fishing and gathering. This is the strongest defense for dealing with other businesses on our territory as well as other Governments and Nations.

The job of Council is huge and as I respect the responsibility over the organization we have to be clear about our role in each area we get involved in and clear with everyone we work with. Knowing what management is responsible for and what Council should be doing I hope will steer the direction we go since we can be busy 100% of the time but we want to do the right things. I hope to hear from you about how we are doing. I am very busy and need to learn to slow down to communicate and listen more, I hope to do better at this.

Healing Opportunities with Deacon Jamie

A Special Viewing of a Film

We (members of Seabird and Sts'ailes Bands) have received an invitation from a priest in the Archdiocese who produced a film while working in the northern part of the province. The film's focus is on the impact of the residential school system on First Nation people.

The topics discussed in the film are reconciliation and healing. The audience the film speaks to is First Nation people who are associated with the Catholic church now or in the past. The film will be shown on Dec 6 (evening) in Vancouver. Admission is free and I am working on arranging transportation. Those interested in seeing the film, see contact information to reserve seats.

Personal Relationship Healing (PRH)

The PRH healing course is going to be offered to people from Sts'ailes and Seabird in February 2018. The focus of the program is helping people to heal from childhood trauma. The program will be offered over a two weekend timetable (Saturday and Sunday). We are allowed fifteen seats and there is no cost for taking the program. The program's location will be at the church in Sts'ailes. Let me know as soon as possible as it will be "first come, first serve".

Prayer Cenacle

We have formed a prayer cenacle which meets every two weeks on Thursday's at 6:30 pm, alternating between Sts'ailes and Seabird. We read some of the warnings the blessed mother gave to children in Fatima and Lourdes. We pray the rosary then offer up prayers on behalf of the community we are praying in. We also encourage people to pray for their own families.

Thursday December 7 it will be at Seabird. Everyone is welcome!

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada Indigenous Student Recruitment

The Indigenous Student Recruitment Initiative at Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada (AAFC) is committed to enabling Indigenous students to gain experience and knowledge of various careers available within the Department, and the public service as a whole.

With the assistance of an AAFC Elder, a team of regional champions focus on increasing awareness, recruitment, and engagement of Indigenous students across Canada.

Coaching and Mentoring with AAFC's Elder

The initiative works to foster a culture of inclusion, while supporting mentorships and knowledge sharing activities. A key component of the initiative is the AAFC Elder, who works to build trust and understanding with students, provides one-on-one and group coaching, and offers guidance in a relaxed, positive, and open environment.

AAFC is happy to welcome Mervin Traverse (right) as an Elder to the Indigenous Student Recruitment Initiative.

Communicating and Networking with Students

Newsletters are circulated between students participating in the initiative and often include historical information on important dates and milestones such as Numbered Treaties, a career corner with links to career opportunities within AAFC, opportunities for students to provide feedback on ways to improve the initiative, and fun ways to stay connected with each other such as through social media.

AAFC currently has 20 Research and Development Centres across Canada with many of these facilities in close proximity to First Nations communities.
