The Yoo Hoo is going through a transition and will be available in our newspaper boxes centrally located at designated locations around Seabird in the late January to Mid-February.

As such there will be NO MORE home delivery.

In the future, the Seabird Island Yoo Hoo can be picked up at the Administration (front entrance) or emailed to those who choose to be more earth-kind and go green. It is also available on our Website.

As well, you will see many new newspaper boxes popping up around Seabird in the late January to February time period. Where you will be able to freely grab a copy of the Yoo Hoo, as you like.

Breast Cancer Support Group

On December 22, 2017 our Breast Cancer Support group met for its Annual Christmas Dinner and Workshop. Raydene Erickson, MSW, was the guest speaker and has been a long term educator, resource person and counsellor for the group.

Christmas was soon approaching and with it brought so many mixed emotions as this tight group shared their individual journeys. They celebrated another year of remission, strength and contribution to their families and communities. They exemplified “hope and joy.”

Raydene spoke about the skills and coping strategies that had been presented in previous meetings. Reminding our group of when and how to use them.

Living in the “present”, putting fear and anxiety in the background, rather than in the forefront was discussed. A Christmas gift sharing game was presented to encourage the excitement of living in the “present” and coping with the “unexpected.”

Each member shared their struggles, but also reflected back to the beginning of their journey, celebrating their success and the growth they had experienced. They also shared recent events: the loss of a mother, two women had lost sisters within the recent months, and three of the four women are currently raising their young grandchildren.

Their partners listened very intently and seemed to soak up the ideas presented. It was evident they had a great desire to be included, educated and supported.

Medical information that had been requested by the group was: “Lymphedema. What is it? Why does it occur? How can it be dealt with?” An interactive time of question and answer followed. Each member received a facetime video with follow up information and suggested exercises that might assist in relieving lymphatic congestion.

The members were so comfortable with each other and were excited to be together as a group. They lingered for several hours after the food service and workshop was done. Hugs, words of encouragement, tears and laughter was exchanged within the safety of the group. The fear of cancer returning lingers in the shadows, but the fear of facing it alone is gone.

Chief and Council wish you a very Happy New Year and hope you, your family and friends had a joyous Merry Christmas. As we ring in 2018; we wish you good health and prosperity throughout this new year.

It was wonderful to see all the families at the Christmas dinner and the happy faces of all the children as they received their presents. We would like to express our heartfelt gratitude to the hardworking staff; cooks, volunteers and the men and women of A:yelexw – Centre for Hope and Healing recovery homes.

We extend our appreciation to the staff of the Housing and Public Works programs who worked tirelessly clearing our roads and driveways during the recent snowfall and to the community members for their patience as they waited for plowing service.

Please exercise caution as you attempt to venture out on the sidewalks, roads and roadways during the winter season.

Happy New Year

TEACHER EDUCATION PROGRAM, UBC

My education journey was nothing short long and arduous, but rewarding. I began with a goal in mind and then sort of lost my way trying to figure out exactly who I was and what I wanted to do. There were many ups and downs. Making the decision for a career you are unsure you want to do is difficult and it was not until this final year at UBC that I realized that teaching is precisely what I want to do. Those first few years are not easy, but also nothing like the amazing experience of my final year in the Teacher Education Program.

I spent the better part of twelve months working with a cohort full of colleagues who were supportive and overall awesome people. They came from all over the world just to partake in this program and I was fortunate enough to get to know them and develop lifelong friendships. The final year at UBC was not easy. It was a long commute and a long transit from where I was staying, but it is doable. From the time I got up in the morning to the time I got home was about a 14-hour day but I was able to make it work. I found the second term to be the most difficult because my courses were so condensed, I was constantly busy with keeping up with everything. There were moments I wasn't sure I could do it, but this program had encouraged such supportive cohorts, that I had a lot of support to keep going. My professors are amazing people that really believe in what you can do. They are there for you all the time.

I did my practicum in Maple Ridge at a private school and it is hard for me to express how wonderful my experience there was. I learned so much from the teachers and students I worked with. It was very difficult leaving before the school year ended. I was left with happy memories from my first students and I endeavour to take what I have learned from them into my career as a teacher.

I was hired in the Mission School District and I am currently working on a short-term contract teaching grade 2 students. They are very cool little individuals. It is scary beginning right out of school, but I have found that it is best to learn through experience. Be brave. Take risks. I am in a very good place right now.

My future education goals are still unknown at this moment. I have had an offer to pursue a Masters degree to accompany my Bachelors of Education degree and I am definitely considering it. I do want to develop my skills as a teacher before I decide to take on more education. Perhaps a few years.

I would like to thank all of the wonderful people that made this possible for me. I am certain you know who you are.

Seabird Youth

Thank you to all the Youth and their families for a great 2017! We had lots of fun in December! We had a gingerbread house making competition during our Youth and Elders evening and we had a great time celebrating the year for our Christmas celebration. We had 34 Youth and parents attend our celebration dinner on Friday, December 22, at Red Robins in Abbotsford and afterwards enjoyed a movie at the Mission theatre. The Youth had a great time getting to visit and celebrate a great year with one another. Thank you to everyone who has been a part of the Youth program this past year: Youth, parents/guardians, families, guests and staff. You are all very much appreciated.

We will be hosting a Bake Sale on January 19 from 11-1 p.m. in the foyer. Donations are welcome and Youth are encouraged to come to the trailer at 10 a.m. to help Tara-Lyn prepare. Afterwards, we will be going into Chilliwack for lunch and skating. Youth expressed interest in going skating as an opportunity to try a new activity, remain physically active and familiarize themselves with a winter sport. There is limited space at no cost to Youth.

On January 22, at 4:30 p.m., we will be holding a meeting to discuss the upcoming year and take in any feedback about what our program will look like in 2018. This meeting is open to anyone, including Youth and parents/guardians, and dinner will be served. Please let Tara-Lyn know if you are planning on coming so we can make sure we have enough food.

Please let Tara-Lyn know when you are coming to or participating in any events or sign up in the Youth Binder located at the Reception desk.

If you have any questions/feedback about anything within the Youth program, please get in touch with the Youth Worker, Tara-Lyn Linton. She can be reached by phone/text at 604.798.6524. On top of the newsletter, program updates are also included on the Youth Facebook page, our email list (please email tlinton@seabirdisland.ca to be added to this), and our Youth binder.
